

My wife and I are proud financial supporters of K-Love radio in Oklahoma City. The station serves our community extremely well by providing an alternative to commercial radio and by providing a Christian voice to the community. Local events and news are often represented so the local public interest is served very well.

If the local K-Love station were to be replaced by a local LPFM station, thousands of listeners would be affected in the Oklahoma City market. Christian format radio is strongly supported here and a definite void would be left if it would be replaced. I feel very strongly any replacement station would not serve the community as well as K-Love does.
